

Recall of Parliament

As you know, Parliament has been recalled for Friday.

You are able to claim for any reasonable travel to return to London so you can attend Parliament. This includes international travel back to the UK for you and your spouse or partner and dependants, where necessary. You will be expected to travel standard class or equivalent unless there is no alternative or there is a more cost-effective option available.

If it is a standard journey then you can pay for it using any of the usual methods. If the journey you need to make is a non-standard one, for example returning from overseas, you will need to claim using the 'recall' category.

If you have any questions about this, please contact us using the contact information below.
